by Victor Bjelajac, CSPRA President

I am looking over the CSPRA agenda and order of business for the October 8th, meeting of the Board at Big Sur... 52 pages. The Board meeting was well attended and coincided with the Retirees Rendezvous.

The board meeting ran for close to, or over, four hours (secretary Price will no doubt be thinking 4 hours, 6 minutes and 23 seconds and wondering why I can't be accurate) and suffered attrition as attending CSPRA Rendezvous members remembered that they were indeed retired and no longer required to sit in extended meetings.

What could take four hours you ask? Approval of minutes, from last quarterly meeting and three Special Actions of The Board, officer reports, interim executive manager report, 23 committee and contractor reports, six items of unfinished business, six items of new business, lively discussion on most items/reports and many motions, discussions and votes.

We, as an organization and board, have been very busy over the last three quarters. Through committee work we have officially supported AB 327; Prevailing Wage Exemption, AB 346; Removal of Helmet for Identification, AB 988; Environmental Education, SB 288; Redwood Burls, SB 317; The Safe Neighborhood Parks, Rivers and Coastal protection Act of 2016. Through CSPRA board and member action we have supported the Department with position letters on: proposed Upper Truckee River Restoration, Red Rock Canyon resumed mining threat and possible impacts to historic landscape of Colombia State Historic Park, Rim of the Valley, Ranger's 150th anniversary commemoration, donation collection for a celebration honoring the life of Ranger Liz Burko, as well as other committee and member work on resource protection at parks throughout the state

We have welcomed new board member Sue Neary (vice president) and thanked Mark Hada for his many years of service to the CSPRA. We have continued to partner with International Ranger Federation and World Ranger Congress (WRC), forged new alliances with California State Park Foundation (CSPF) as a member of State Park Action Network (SPAN) and allied with Federation of Western Outdoor Clubs (FWOC) as a member.

We continue to meet quarterly with director Mangat and other executive staff and have re-established and strengthened CSPRA's relationship with the Department. We will be partnering with CSPF and California League of Park associations (CALPA) and will cosponsor a conference with CSPF and CALPA coinciding with Advocacy Day in Sacramento this May. We anticipate a Partnership focus for this event and welcometheDepartments'Transformation Team (TT) to participate and share the ongoing work of the TT.

Board members have developed informational materials and have committed to reaching out to department staff for new members across classifications during the remainder of 2015 and 2016.

We honored the exceptional work of our CSPRA Secretary, Jeff Price throughout 2015 with a plaque at our last board meeting and I would like to acknowledge the continued exceptional work of all the CSPRA board and committee members throughout the year. We have packed agendas because much is going lately.

Big Sur Update: Major Projects Completed

The Retirees Rendezvous returned to Pfeiffer-Big Sur State Park for the 3rd time in 2015. It was a pleasure to see the park looking great after a years long Major Capital Outlay project.

The iconic campfire center is open for business, a new Nature Center is being prepared in a restored historic building, plant restoration is evident throughout the park and visitors are enjoying a new boardwalk trail through the redwoods.

A boardwalk trail with 10 new interpretive panels was built through the redwood grove near the entrance to the park. Previously, visitors had to walk along the road to enjoy the trees. Pedestrian use is being encouraged by providing a safe and interesting place to walk for day users and campers. The project also included a new walking bridge across the river and an entrance station re-location. A tour of the Ernst Ewoldsen Memorial Nature Center was part of the Rendezvous program. L to R: SCA Intern Dustin Davis, retiree Miles Standish, San Juan Bautista Interpreter Nicki Combs, District Interpretive Specialist Pat Clark Gray, retirees Chuck Combs and Dave Carle, Point Lobos Interpretive Specialist Melissa Gobell and Big Sur Interpreter Sara Arnett.

Kneeling: Asilomar Interpreter Lisa Bradford.

Big Sur Interpreter Sara Arnett explains the evolution of the new Nature Center. The old location was up a steep hill, difficult for visitors to find and lacking in handicapped access. The new location, in a historic maintenance garage, is centrally located near the campground and lodge. Some of the previous exhibits, like the redwood tree above and a beloved stuffed mountain lion, will be displayed in the new facility.

Big Sur Update

Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park, one of the oldest State Parks in the system, was established in 1933. The influence of the Civilian Conservation Corps workers is evident throughout, with many classic stoves and picnic tables displaying the signature CCC-era rockwork.

Warden's Cottage

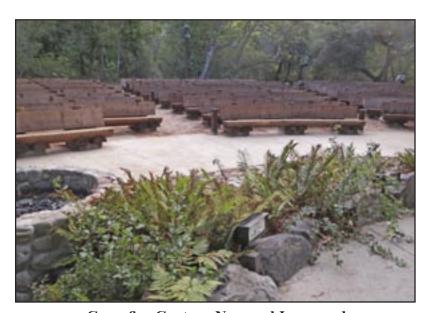

The Warden's Cottage was restored recently, and houses park offices. It is one of the best preserved of all the CCC structures in the State Park System.

2015 Pfeiffer Big Sur staff on the porch of the Warden's Cottage. L to R: Ranger Brian Powell, Interpreter Sara Arnett, Administrative Senior Park Aide Michele Craig and Sector Superintendent Brian Robertson.

Natuve Plant Restoration Part of the Major Capital Outlay project was re-planting native vegetation throughout the park. An effort was made to replace plants disturbed during construction with new plantings. Local children participated in the restoration process.

Campfire Center - New and Improved Restoration and improvement of the classic campfire center was a years long effort shared by many park staffers. The center is now completely handicapped accessible, with new redwood benches, a state-of-the-art projection system, energy efficient lighting and a stage big enough for a wide range of activities.

23rd Annual Retirees Rendezvous Pfeiffer Big Sur State Park

Spectacular warm weather greeted 44 attendees from a range of park classifications at the Retirees Rendezvous, held in early October. Hiking, searching for condors, dining in fine coastal establishments, a talk on Galen Clark by Miles Standish and enjoying the redwoods and river at Big Sur were all part of the fun.

Vintage State Park Postcards Mike Lynch and Rodi Lee presented a program on their project of a coffee table book documenting vintage postcards collected from California State Parks. The program, held in the newly restored campfire center, was enjoyed by a good crowd of Rendezvous attendees and the public. Board Meeting An epic five hour CSPRA Board meeting was held at the Inter-agency Visitor Center at Big Sur. Several retirees took the opportunity to attend.

CSPRA Joins the Federation of Western Outdoor Clubs (FWOC)

by Ann Meneguzzi

Since 1932 the Federation of Western Outdoor Clubs (FWOC) has been a voluntary association of outdoor clubs from several western states. These clubs have members who share in enjoyment of outdoor the recreation and in the desire to support various conservation and recreational use issues. Through the years, the FWOC has enabled its member clubs to learn about and successfully advocate for such matters as the Wilderness Act, the prohibition of privatization of public lands, and sensitivity of the Bodie environs to mining hazards. Because there is strength in numbers, the FWOC gives its members a louder voice to campaign for various resource protection matters.

Membership in the FWOC is not expensive for a group like CSPRA. Annual dues for our membership size are only $50/year. By joining FWOC, CSPRA gains an effective group of allies in our efforts to advocate for such matters as the Washoe Meadows Redevelopment Plan and the Red Rock Canyon area mining threats. After a special vote by the CSPRA Board of Directors in June, CSPRA joined the FWOC.

CSPRA now has a new and effective way to bring California State Park resource concerns to a larger, receptive, and active audience. A number of the member clubs are California groups including several chapters of the Sierra Club and various hiking and outdoor clubs. The interests of these clubs' memberships mean that they are potential allies for spreading our interests in park and resource protection. By becoming a member of FWOC, we can be more successful in getting our viewpoints understood and shared.

The FWOC holds annual conferences

where attendees from member clubs gather to present, discuss, and gain support for resolutions submitted by the various clubs' delegates. This year's conference was held August 27-30 at the Menucha Conference Center in Oregon's Columbia River Gorge. It was the third year that I attended the conference as a delegate for the California Alpine Club (CAC). (Some of you may be aware of the CAC and how its CAC Foundation has helped our parks in Marin and in the Tahoe area.) This year I was also there for CSPRA along with Mike & Patsy Lynch and Rodi Lee as CSPRA delegates.

FWOC Resolution on Washoe Meadows

by Ann Meneguzzi,

CSPRA Board Member

Since the 1920s, land that later became Washoe Meadows State Park and Lake Valley State Recreation Area has undergone logging, gravel mining, river channeling and golf course development Channelization of the river eliminated a portion of its natural meander and lowered the water table, leading to meadow loss. Without the natural filtering action of extensive meadows, an increased sediment load now empties into Lake Tahoe. Increased sedimentation has decreased Lake Tahoe's clarity.

A study explored different alternatives for restoring a 1.5-mile reach of the Upper Truckee River near Meyers, California. The California Department of Parks & Recreation now owns the property. The US Bureau of Reclamation, the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency, and California State Parks have done environmental reviews and analyzed alternatives for a restoration project along this stretch of the river.

Members of CSPRA and the California Alpine Club toured Washoe Meadows State Park and Lake Valley State Recreation Area in September, guided by State Park Hydrologist Cyndie Walck (in green shirt)

The FWOC, along with CSPRA and the California Alpine Club, supports the restoration alternative known as "modified Alternative 2". This alternative re-locates golf course holes now on the Upper Truckee River stream-banks. The links will be moved to higher elevation land previously logged and later mined for gravel before State Parks acquired the property in the 1980s. This alternative also removes all five narrow-span bridges whose footprints constrict and intensify river flow. A single bridge that spans the entire flood plain will replace the five. The natural river meander will be restored so that declining meadows can reinvigorate. Golf course river frontage shrinks from 8000 feet to 1000 feet thus protecting the restored riparian area. A public access trail to Washoe Meadows SP will be constructed from a new Highway 50 trailhead with ties into other public trails outside the parks. A resolution was proposed by CSPRA and CAC, and endorsed by FWOC at their annual meeting.

Red Rock

Reacting to a Red Rock Canyon Mining Threat

by Cindi Whitehead

Being a CSPRA director, I listen to my fellow board members and learn from them. Also, I take what members and even non- members have to say about parks and public lands they enjoy....from their concerns to their compliments.

In October, 2014, a member brought to the Board's attention a possible serious issue regarding Red Rock Canyon State Park. The issue was possible mining for a mineral and type of clay that makes cat-litter taking place just outside and a little inside of the State Park boundary. Some of my fellow directors were aware of this problem. I wasn't, but I decided to tackle it. No, I haven't been to Red Rock, it is in Kern County and is guite a stunning little gem with hiking, wildlife, and history, surrounded in part by BLM lands. The proposed mining would have a negative impact on the park and the wildlife, such as the Desert Tortoise. I discovered many things and learned more about mining. The company performing the mining even used super old Negative Declaration documents, altering them to look current.

I learned about the tortoise. and studied input from the Red Rock Canyon Interpretive Association and local county supervisors as well as our own Department's information. CSPRA realized that this mining event was going to do potential damage. CSPRA wrote letters and contacted other groups that have a vested interest in Red Rock and stood with them. This is why I am a member.

I learned a lot, and although it was overwhelming, CSPRA heard YOUR voice on an important cause and took your voice to the next level. I encourage members to pay attention to all the parks and lands , not just ones they work in or live near, and make problems known to the Board so we can protect our resources. So I want to thank members for keeping informed and learning and telling us what is going on. CSPRA has opened my eyes to love our lands even more. OK, now I am going to Red Rock!!!

Ranger 150th Anniversary Resolution

The California State Park and Recreation Commission passed a Resolution in August in honor of the 150th anniversary of the park ranger profession, which began in 1866 with the appointment of Galen Clark as Guardian of the Yosemite Grant.

<< CSPRA Board Secretary Jeff Price accepts the Resolution from Commission Chair Diane Wittenberg.

I look forward to continued good works on the behalf of CSPRA members and working with the Department as we undergo change to better support the extraordinary resources we are entrusted to protect.

Unlike our board meetings, I will stop here, acknowledging that I have missed many of the good works that have been carried out by the board and members on behalf of CSPRA members in 2015. Looking forward to another busy year for CSPRA in 2016.

World Ranger Congress

ESTES PARK, COLORADO • USA • MAY 21 - MAY 27

Connecting Parks, Rangers, & Communities

In May 2016 the US Association of National Park Rangers (ANPR) in partnership with the International Ranger Federation (IRF) will host the 8th World Ranger Congress (WRC). Every three years, the IRF brings together rangers from around the globe to renew their commitment to preserving and protecting the world's natural and cultural resources. This International gathering provides rangers and protected area professionals the opportunity to learn new skills, share knowledge, create lasting partnerships, and be inspired by their colleagues.

The 8th World Ranger Congress will focus on the theme of "Connecting Parks, Rangers and Communities." Delegates from over 40 countries will explore the different ways rangers and other professionals are actively protecting and preserving the world's natural and cultural resources from ever increasing threats like climate change. world hunger, and poaching. Delegates will also learn how to increase public awareness about how these special places contribute to a healthy society and sustainable economies.

Participants may also register for field trips, shadow assignments, and college credit training before and after the Congress. Prominent conservationist and author Terry Tempest Williams will deliver the inspirational closing address. The WRC will have a large digital presence, offering video feeds from the conference and engagement through social media to encourage participation from rangers worldwide. These digital tools will foster connections among parks, rangers, and communities during the Congress which will continue to grow and prosperafter its conclusion. Spanish and French translation services will also be available.

"Our best achievements come when we are working together..."-7th WRC Coordnatkg Committee

The World Ranger Congress is one of many events celebrating the National Park Service Centennial in 2016. NPS Director Jon Jarvis will attend the Congress to discuss the role of the NPS in protecting and preserving special places around the globe.

Registration services have be provided by The George Wright Society (www.georgewright.org). George Wright will devote all or part of an issue of the George Wright Forum to covering the plenary speeches and issues raised at the Congress.

At the end of this stimulating conference, delegates will depart with a sense of belonging to an international family of rangers who support each other as they go about the business of caring for the world's special places.

Investing In Those Who Protect the World's Natural and Cultural Resources

Connecting Parks. Rangers, and Communities

The International Ranger Federation (IRF) brings together rangers from around the globe every three years to renew their commitment to preserving and protecting the world's natural and wide by poachers and drug cultural resources. For rangers in the United States, the upcoming 8th World Ranger Congress (WRC) hosted by the Association of National Park Rangers (ANPR) is an opportunity to support likeminded individuals dedicated to preserving protected areas through the sharing of best practices and the building of life-long friendships. However, better managed protected and cultural treasures is dangerous work. In the last decade over 1,000 rangers have been murdered worlddealers. Many of these murders go unsolved. Worse yet, families are decimated and are frequently left without the primary breadwinner. The dialogue between rangers begins at WRC and grows throughout the years creating helping to preserve the professional ranger networks around the globe. These personal connections result in protecting the world's natural areas, improved visitor services, and greater protection of wildlife. Since most rangers, even in remote areas of developing nations. have at least occasional Internet connectivity the benefits of attending a World Ranger Congress are amplified over time and a real force multiplier for those unable to attend. WRC is truly an investment in the people world's natural and cultural resources.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

ANPR is seeking corporate, organizational, and/or individual partners interested in helping to sponsor this challenging and stimulating international forum focused on global conservation. Financial, logistical, and in-kind support is essential for the success of the Congress. Scholarships for rangers from developing countries are most welcome. Delegates are also seeking opportunities before and after the Congress to visit US national park areas and shadow park rangers.

MARGARET (Peggy) WHITEHEAD

(1916 - 2015) passed away recently at the age of 98. She was a long time California State Park Advocate and 27 Year CSPRA Benefactor.

Born in Central Falls, Rhode Island, marrying James Whitehead (later Ranger, Superintendent, Park Commissioner and 1981 Honorary CSPRA State Park Ranger), she moved to California after World War II. After a short time in Los Angeles working for the City, followed her husband to Big Basin Redwoods State Park in 1947.

As a member of the 'State Park Family', she also lived at Mt Tamalpais, Point Lobos, San Simeon, Fort Humboldt, Goleta, San Clemente, San Diego, and finally settling in Del Mar, California, across the marsh from Torrey Pines.

After Jim died, she spent many years as a Kaiser Hospital Volunteer, eventually becoming President for the Southern California Kaiser Hospital Volunteer Council.

She was active along with her husband, Jim, in Park Advocacy and Natural History Associations including the Anza Borrego Committee along with being a longtime supporter of the California Parks Foundation and the Save the Redwoods League. She was active in local environmental organizations near her Del Mar home and worked on the Los Penasquitos Marsh and Lagoon preservation efforts, which later became part of Torrey Pines State Reserve as a State Preserve.

Peggy is survived by her son, Michael Whitehead, a retired State Park Ranger and daughter-in-law, Cynthia Whitehead, who continues the family's dedication as a State Park seasonal employee. She moved to Maine in 2003 where her sister, nieces, and nephews live with many visits from family, including her grand and great-grand children, in addition to old friends. She was active and articulate in many continuing causes and park related concerns and a follower of current events, a Scrabble and Tripoli player and a voracious reader and supporter of the local library. Those who knew her will remember her smile, personality and generosity for CSPRA causes and for anything requiring the fighting of the 'good fight'.

Daughter-in-law Cindi Whitehead with Peggy on her 98th birthday.
